Bukidnon Province

Bukidnon is derived from the word "bukid," which means "mountain" or "hill," and is the famed "Fruit and Vegetable Basket of Mindanao," as a drive to the province's roadways provides magnificent vistas of the rich undulating mountains and enormous fields of corn, rice, pineapple, and many other agricultural products. The mountain ranges, namely Mt. Kimangkil Range, Pantaron Range, Mt. Tangkulan Range, Mt. Tago Range, Mt. Kalatungan Range Natural Park, and Mt. Kitanglad Range Natural Park, are where you can find luxuriant tropical rainforests. These ranges host several watersheds that are vital for ecological and economic balance. Mt. Kitanglad is one of the 7 ASEAN Heritage Parks in the country and towers at 2,938 meters. These ranges are also the habitat of critically endangered, economically important, and endemic fauna like the Bukidnon Woodcock, the endangered Philippine Eagle, and flora such as the Rafflesia, known as the world's giant flower. Bukidnon is not only rich in natural wonders but also in culture, as it is home to the seven tribes of Bukidnon: Manobo, Talaandig, Higaonon, Bukidnon, Matigsalug, Umayamnon, and Tigwahanon.

How to get there:

Bukidnon's Top Destinations

Dahilayan Adventure Park

Manolo Fortich,
Bukidnon

Touted as Bukidnon's extreme playground, Dahilayan Adventure Park completely steals the spotlight when it comes to rides and adventures that will give adrenaline junkies a run for their money. Leading the pack of rides is Asia's longest dual zipline, spanning an impressive distance and reaching speeds of up to 90 kph. The park also offers the exhilarating Drop Zone, a 120-foot freefall ride, and the Sky Tower Base Jump, the highest jump in the Philippines.

Panimahawa Ridge

Impasug-ong,
Bukidnon

This 2,687-foot peak is a favorite among hikers and mountaineers for its 360-degree picture-perfect landscape, overnight camping suitability, and majestic view the morning after. It is advisable to start the two-hour trek to Panimahawa Ridge in the afternoon and reach the peak by sundown to camp overnight. If the weather allows it, you will sign the day off with a fantastic display of a sea of clouds, slowly transforming into a starry vista.

Abbey of the Transfiguration

Malaybalay City,
Bukidnon

Our Lady of Montserrat Abbey of the Transfiguration is a faith-building attraction and is considered one of the greatest examples of a Benedictine church, attracting a huge number of tourists during Holy Week. It is also one of the final masterpieces of the National Artist for Architecture, Leandro Locsin. To wrap up your visit, have a sip of their famed Monk's Blend Coffee, freshly roasted from the Abbey grounds.

Taglucop Strawberry Hills

Kitaotao,
Bukidnon

Wake up to a magnificent view of the Arakan Valley from their dainty geodesic glamping domes, right in the middle of a strawberry farm. While you bask in the romantic, foggy allure of the mountains, you can relish in their famously elegant charcuterie of cheeses, fresh fruits, biscuits, cold cuts, and sausages, washed down with a bottle of their very own strawberry wine.
